The Power ranking of a team is based on the team's standing in three categories:

- 1) Win/Loss Record
- 2) Total Points
- 3) Breakdown = Wins and Loses against all Teams each week.

The Breakdown category calculates how your team would have done had it played all the other teams each week of the season.

Within these categories, "power" points are awarded Rotisserie-style. For example, if there are 12 teams in your league, the team with the best Win/Loss record would receive 12 points for that category, the team with the next best record would receive 11 points, and so on, with the team with the worst record receiving 1 point. The same ranking system is applied for Total Points and for Breakdown. The scores for each category are then totaled to create the overall Power ranking.
